EARLIER DAY RUDY HARTMAN AT WORK — Shown here is Rudy Hartman in Hartman Pharmacy before his retirement in 1975. When he retired, the Sierra Madrean had "been on the floor" in the pharmacy for 65 years. Hartman will be 90 years old in October, 1985.

Hartman sells to Best Buy

The town of Sierra Madre has resembled a chess board the past week while businesses closed and reopened in other locations or new businesses opened. Other business news is available in a different story.

Perhaps the most controversial move was the sale of Hartman Pharmacy to Superior Drug Co., or Best Buy Drugs as it is known in Sierra Madre. The business changed hands mid-week last week and with that sale comes the close of a business first started in 1906 by W. E. Bechtelheimer, according to Rudy Hartman of Sierra Madre.

"The first pharmacy was located across the street where Keepsake is now in business," Hartman told The News. "My father, Franklin, and I started the business on Cinco de Mayo (May 5) in 1910." This year would be the 75th anniversary of Hartman Pharmacy.

Hartman said he started his apprenticeship and finished before going to school in 1914. He graduated in 1916 from USC and registered as a pharmacist at the same time. He was not yet 21 years old so he signed his assistant papers. Those papers, he explained, meant he could "do anything in the pharmacy except take charge." In 1916 Hartman turned 21.

Hartman said he was "on the floor" for 65 years before his retirement on Cinco de Mayo in 1975. His father retired in 1932.

"This is not an easy thing for me to do," Hartman said. "It's in my blood. My idea has always been service to the people."

The octogenarian, who will actually turn 90 this October, explained that he was president of the School Board for 12 years. During the year 1932, he was president of the board, master of the local Masonic Lodge and president of the California/ Arizona Rexall Club. He is the oldest living past master of the lodge and now answers to senior past master.

He joined Kiwanis Club in 1942 and served as president last year. He is taking another stint as treasurer this year.

On Jan. 10, he began his 74th year as a member of Sierra Madre Congregational Church. He grinned when he told The News that he had worked in all offices of the church except clerk and "deaconess."

He retired last fall as chairman of the advisory board of Lloyd's Bank in Sierra Madre, beginning when the bank was Sierra Madre Savings Bank.

He was Sierra Madre Citizen of the Year in 1971.

Hanging baskets to liven up downtown Sierra Madre

Hanging baskets filled with living flowers and plants will soon be visible in downtown Sierra Madre if a Sierra Madre Beautification Committee project, now in the planning stages, receives the support of Sierra Madre's business people and various downtown groups.

The committee, which already has a sidewalk art project for Sierra Madre youth underway, has received the approval of the City Council and endorsement from the Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce for the hanging basket program.

The program will include the donation of planted and installed baskets to be attached to light poles and/or buildings on Sierra Madre Blvd., Baldwin Ave. and Montecito,wherever businesses indicate they are willing to be responsible for watering the baskets. Water wands will be donated along with the baskets.

The committee will furnish a nucleus of baskets, the number to be determined by the costs, and various volunteer organizations in town will be asked to join an "Adopt a Basket" program by providing the funds for additional baskets.

Initial research by committee members indicates the cost of each basket, planting, soil, security bracket and water wand, will range from between $35 and $50. Funds for the committee's nucleus program have been raised by members of the committee through a dinner theatre party, Wistaria Vine donations and recycling center stint. No tax funds will be involved in the project.

Window decals fo businesses who participate in the program, identifying their special participation and interest in Sierra Madre Downtown Beautiful are being designed by the committee.

The committee's goal is installation of the majority of the baskets prior to the Friends of the Library annual art fair in May.

Plans currently under consideration by the committee include scaevola, a drought-resistant succulent with lavendar blossoms, asparagus fern, geraniums and snowball plants.

Ideas and suggestions are welcomed by the committee. Further information may be obtained by calling Beautification Committee Chairman Barbara Godley, 355-4347.

SIERRA MADRE CHILD PLANS DESIGN FOR CONTEST — Kari Jackson, 9, daughter of Kathy Jackson of Sierra Madre, begins formulating plans to participate in the sidewalk art contest sponsored by the Sierra Madre Beautification Committee. Kari has many household items which she will use to "carve" her design. She is a fourth grader at High Point Academy.

Candidates for 'citizen' are announced

Twelve sets of candidates — some of them repeats — have been nominated for Sierra Madre 1984 Citizen of the Year, according to Nancy Shollenberger, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce-sponsored function.

Those nominated include: Richard and Marie Hartley (Richard Hartley died last year); Joseph Delgatto Sr., Paul Tate, Jan Maddox, Ginny Liskow, Ola V. Smith, Ola and Rex Smith, Sam D. Simpson, Mary Estoppey, Royden F. Estoppey, Jerry and Marian Adkins and Jerome (Jerry) Adkins.

In next week's edition of The News, the top three contenders will be named along with a photo and interview, and in the Jan. 31 edition, the Citizen of the Year will be featured.

Others on the nominating committee are Joyce Steele, Dori Osterman and Irshad Haque.

Nominees are chosen for volunteer work they have done for the community both during the past year and for that they have done during former years.

The Citizen of the Year and Chamber of Commerce Installation dinner will be held Jan. 31 at Brookside Country Club, 1133 N. Rose-

Under the Pepper Tree

by Jan Reed

● According to Sierra Madre Police Chief Bill Betts, the storm over the weekend was fierce but actually most points in Sierra Madre had electricity by Saturday evening. There were a few isolated spots still out until Sunday.

The cleanup was done quickly and efficiently, thanks to our city crews and the able utility companies. Trees that were broken and uprooted were dealt with almost immediately so that no other damage ensued.

We're hoping that's the end of our Santa Anas this year but let's all keep our fingers crossed.

● A piece by Sho Nomura of Sierra Madre was printed in the mid-December edition of Kashu Mainichi (translated that means California Daily), a Japanese newspaper printed in Southern California.

You'll recall the piece Phyllis Chapman did on Sho about his experiences in WWII — he, also, reminisced in the article for the Japanese paper. Of course, we all know he's Helen Obazawa's brother.

● Phyllis Harris received a letter from Pres. Reagan this week. As if that's not enough of a success story, Phyllis was a close friend of the President's mother, Nelle Reagan, when they both attended Hollywood Beverly Christian Church.

Phyllis sang in the choir at the church and each Sunday after church, Nelle Reagan took Phyllis to a nearby sanitarium where Phyllis sang to patients.

Phyllis wrote the President at the end of 1984, remembering a few anecdotes about his mother, and he returned the favor with a letter, bearing further memories about his mother.

● The storm Saturday caused one set of injuries to Eleanor Tarup when she was hurled by the wind, sustaining a crushed elbow and a broken leg. She is in Arcadia Methodist Hospital.

● Returning home from that hospital this week is Jan Maddox who has been having troubles with her back. Think of both of these women . . .

● Did you know that Alaska became the 49th state on Jan. 3, 1959? And Utah became the 45th state on Jan. 5, 1869. It was on Jan. 6 that New Mexico became the 47th state in 1912.

EAGER AUTO TRIED TO DRIVE INTO STORE — Gem Plumbing employees were amazed to see an auto plowing into their place of business Jan. 11 when a Sierra Madre woman hit the accelerator instead of the brakes on her auto and lost control. The auto hit the live Christmas tree in its barrel, driving it into the front of the building in the 100 block of N. Baldwin. Damage was minor.

Jaycee Week

By Tim Connaghan

This week, Jan. 13 - 19, is National Jaycee Week, a week in which Jaycees and Jaycee chapters across our nation take time to look back at the work they accomplished in the previous year, and look forward to their goals for this year.

The Jaycees, since their inception 65 years ago this month, have been an organization of young people who have contributed materially to the betterment of their communities, their state and our nation. They accomplished this through their participation and involvement in such programs as Individual Development and Community Service.

Three months ago, the new chapter of Sierra Madre began its organization, with 30 young men and women all interested in personal development and community service.

But it takes more than just those 30 persons to cause an effect within our community. It takes the entire community working together to actually be a "real" community. Here, in Sierra Madre, we have a "real" community. It is a community that cares for its fellow neighbors and has concerns for others' needs.

Two weeks ago, this foothill community shared in the experiences of the 96th Annual Rose Parade with the theme "Spirit of America." Leading the parade was the actual torch of the Statue of Liberty and many of the floats brought to mind the spirit of greatness that America holds.

During this next year it will be the Jaycees' goal not to forget that parade and the visit of the torch. It will be our goal to remind everyone of the freedom and opportunity that America holds for all. We know that the citizens of Sierra Madre have a share in that goal.

The "Spirit of America" can and will last throughout this year, and hopefully forever.

Cautions to donors

Business concerns and private citizens who are being solicited in some communities by a recently-formed organization calling itself "The Association of California Highway Patrol Disabled and Retired Officers" should be advised that the group is not an official extension of the state's Highway Patrol.

"We really know very little about this organization, except for its name and the fact that it is apparently selling advertising space in a book it intends to publish," said CHP Commissioner James E. Smith. "The group's name has caused some confusion for the public which we'd like to clear up."

He said CHP "has not recognized, condoned, or endorsed the group calling itself the Association of California Highway Patrol Disabled and Retired Officers, or any fund-raising efforts it might conduct."

PERRET-SCOPE

I finally saw the movie "Trading Places." I was disappointed. I thought it was about Ronald Reagan's cabinet.

Reagan just rotated all his Cabinet members. It's a good idea. That way the tread wears more evenly on them.

How do you like Reagan's new Cabinet? It's the first time anyone's played musical chairs to the tune of "Hail to the Chief."

I love the way Reagan appointed his new Cabinet. He put the old Cabinet in a bag and shook them up.

It's just like a Johnny Carson show. Everybody just moves down one on the couch.

Ten years from now, this is going to cause a lot of wrong answers in Trivial Pursuit games.

There hasn't been this much moving around in the Capitol since Rita Jenrette got off the steps.

This would be the perfect time for the Russians to attack. Everybody in Washington is busy cleaning out their desks.

Our government is at a standstill. All the important people are out having new name plates made.

First thing Ronald Reagan does every morning now is read the paper. He wants to find out if he's still President.

It seems like everybody in Washington is flip-flopping jobs. George Bush just can't wait until his turn comes.

Reagan may have carried this flip-flopping too far. At the Santa Barbara ranch, Ronnie's doing dishes while Nancy's chopping the wood.

Tax reform is a hoax

Do not be fooled by the new "tax reform." It is nothing but a tax shift, if that. It cannot be anything else. Why? Because government spending has not been decreased.

A continuously increasing amount of our money (tax dollars) is needed to pay for continuously increasing government spending.

The news accounts are speaking of a 25% flat tax on a $25,000 income. Add to that the 15% Social Security tax. That comes to 40%, or $10,000 on the $25,000 income. Add to this state income, property, unemployment and sales taxes and more than 50% of your income is taxed away by direct taxes.

This does not take into accounts the added cost to you on all goods you purchase because, to stay in business, manufacturers must pass on to the consumer corporate taxes, employer taxes, payroll taxes, etc.

This country needs less government. Let's not shift taxes and call it reform. Let's reduce government spending and really reduce our taxes.

(Mrs.) Ann M. Mehrten

More info on taxes

An article which appeared a couple months ago in the Sierra Madre News advised readers that, through an "oversight," the amount appearing on our 1984 property tax bills under "Municipal Water" was exactly double the correct amount. Over the years, I have paid the entire amount of the bill in order to deduct this from my federal tax in April.

On Dec. 9, I paid the entire amount less one-half of the item listed as "Municipal Water." This week I received a notice from the L.A. County Tax Collector's office, returning my check and noting the larger TOTAL amount due which is $18.61 more than my check but $104.26 more than the one-half legally due on my proerty tax at this time.

The return of my check means that I will be unable to deduct any amount from my Federal Income Tax in April.

I called them, however, and was very satisfied with their answer. They told me to send back my original check with a note attached regarding the error and they would process the check. If there is any difference when the new bills are distributed in February, I will either have to pay or get a refund.

I thought this would be interesting to your readers who have also had this happen to them.

Special thanks for disaster help

I feel the people of Sierra Madre and vicinity share in a feeling of deep appreciation of the men who work so diligently at all hours of day and night to restore the utilities and all essential services when disaster strikes as in our recent wind storm.

We, Senior Citizens, especially are most grateful that we will not have to do without heat and lights during the cold nights.

'Older American' awards now open

Sierra Madre residents 65 years and older who have distinguished themselves through volunteer work in the city are eligible for nomination for the "Older American Award."

The man or woman who is selected will represent the city in May at the Older Americans Recognition Day in Los Angeles County. The local awards program is being sponsored by the Sierra Madre Commission on the Aging, Inc., with Marjorie Peterson serving as chairman.

To be eligible, nominees must be at least 65 years of age, and residents of the city. Their volunteer work in 1984 will be heavily weighted in the selection process, which will be done by members of the Commission on the Aging, Inc. Volunteer work from earlier years will also be considered.

Nomination forms and information have been sent to many local clubs, and may also be obtained at the City Hall in the office of Jim McRea, city administrator. Nominations may be submitted by individuals or organizations by Feb. 1, and should be sent to Marjorie Peterson, Older American Awards Chairman, 71 Suffolk Ave., Sierra Madre.

Tips, Tales & Tantalizers

I love my vegies. I honestly believe the best part of any meal is not the dessert but the vegetables, generously laced with creamy butter and herbs. And, I must admit, my favorite vegetable is — none other than spinach.

Did you know that legends pertaining to this dark, green, leafy vegetable have been around for centuries? Yes, they have. And right here in America, spinach has almost become a fetish! In fact, some nutritionists have proclaimed that spinach is responsible for the "bubbles of joy," or "romantic feelings" or better known as "butterflies" when one falls in love. No wonder so many people are eating spinach salads these days. What a wonderful fetish.

But in all seriousness, this wonderful "aphrodisiac" was not introduced into America in the beginning. It was first introduced in Europe in the 15th century. But alas, in the seventh and eighth centuries the Chinese were already using this green vegetable in famous dishes such as chop suey and Chinese soup. They knew what was good for them. The Spaniards though had one up on the Chinese, when in the 12th century they proclaimed spinach as "the prince of vegetables."

Then came along horse racing in France, and the French named a favorite four-footer, "Epinard," which is the French word for spinach. it seems that everyone has tried to capitalize on my favorite vegetable. Even Elzie Crisler Segar. This writer really brought spinach into the limelight when "Popeye the Sailor" was created.

I remember as a little girl all my friends telling me how much they hated spinach. I could never understand that. I suppose if spinach could have been called by its French name, "Epinard," they might have thought of it as some sort of delicacy — like escargot, or snails. And my thoughts are much the same today. I still prefer — spinach! (Me and Popeye!)

30 individuals to help select superintendent

A special committee of 30 individuals representing the board cross-section served by the Pasadena Unified School District will be named by the Board of Education to assist the board in its search for a new superintendent of schools, it was announced recently.

In making the announcement, Kathryn T. Nack, board president, said that the committee will be asked to interview the finalists for the superintendent position.

The following school district related groups will be represented on the interview committee: PTA Council, District Advisory Committee, Bilingual Advisory Committee, United Teachers of Pasadena, Association of Pasadena School Administrators, CSEA, and Community Advisory Committee for Special Education. The communities within the district will be represented by the Mayor William Bogaard of Pasadena, Mayor Tom Edwards, of Sierra Madre, and chairman of the Altadena Town Council.

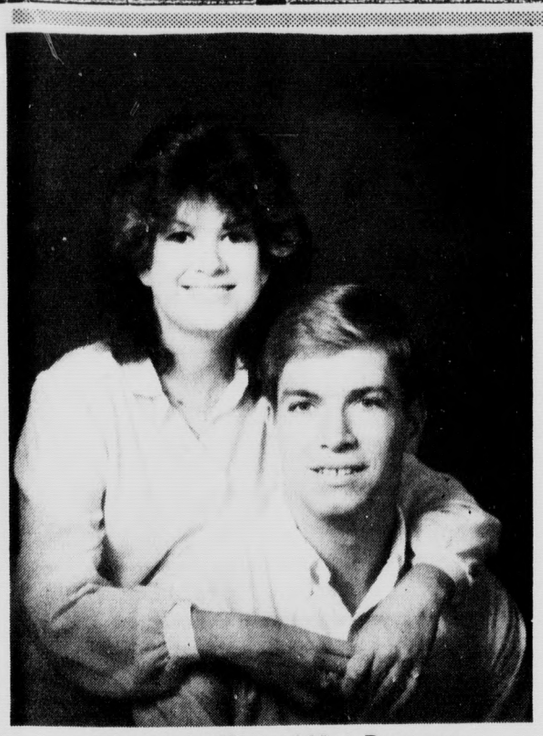

"This community interview committee will meet in executive session with the superintendent candidates, one by one," said Nack. "By this process, the board will receive the benefit of learning how the individual candidates interact with members of our community."

The procedure, she outlined, will include a presentation by each candidate as to why he or she would like to be superintendent and what his or her goals are for the district, followed by a question and answer period.

After each interview, each member of the committee will complete a simple form indicating his or her reaction to an assessement of the candidate. These forms will be collected by the chairman after each interview, and at the conclusion of the interviews, the forms will be given to the board president.

Nack said that no discussion of candidates will take place by the committee as a whole and no consensus or vote will be taken.

Additional members will be at large. Each board member will supply four additional names

Now about that police report . . .

By Roy Thorson

Some of the biggest men in town come to Kiwanis Club of Sierra Madre, California. Among other activities, we have very learned discourses on problems facing major cities of this country.

With much sympathy for Mayor Ed Koch of New York City, we had a seminar on ways we could help solve his mugging problem. It was given national attention the other day when Bernie Goetz, accosted by four thugs, whipped a pistol from his pocket and calmly shot all four.

That's a dramatic cure and Kiwanian Harry Martin said it reminded him of two events that he could remember. One was the public hanging of every criminal in San Francisco by the "Vigilante Committee." The other was in World War I, when a GI killed a Parisian maiden.

The French citizens demanded the American soldier be hanged in front of his entire regiment and such Parisians who cared to watch.

Harry said, "It was surprising how many of those big, strong soldiers fainted at the sight."

As we proceeded with our seminar, it was brought to our attention that California law is much more lenient on vigilantes than New York.

In fact, 81-year-old Tom Korshak, carrying a bottle of whiskey, and escorting his wife, and going to a cocktail party in Beverly Hills, shot and killed an armed robber, or so he thought. It is not clear from the reports whether he was protecting his wife or the whiskey. Anyway, he will not be prosecuted. It also gives you an idea of what you can get by with in Beverly Hills.

Proceeding with our seminar on mugging, those who had an experience with mugging, (naturally it occurred in another city) revealed the utter terror of the confrontation. They suggested that when the law is no longer capable of protecting them but only protects those who hold the law in contempt, support for the law disappears.

Recalling the article on the 10 safest cities in the United States in the magazine Family Circle, and naming Sierra Madre as one of the best, I turned to Police Chief Bill Betts.

"You've had some experience with law enforcement, Bill. What's the secret?"

"It's all very simple," Bill said. "The natives of Sierra Madre wouldn't put up with any mugging."

I saw Harry make a bee line for the door.

"Where are you going, Harry?" I asked.

"I'm going to call Mayor Ed Koch of New York City and tell him how we solve our mugging problems. In fact, I think I'll invite him out here to the coast so he can see for himself."

Sherwood to discuss E. A. Otis Jan. 19

The Bishop will also give an address to young people at the Evensong service Jan. 20.

Bishop Marshall became the bishop of Woolwich in 1975 at the age of 39, making him the youngest bishop in the Church of England since the Reformation. After nine years he resigned that post to become Episcopal director of the Anglican Institute, as well as of the Episcopal Book Club and the Anglican Digest.

Author of five books, he has traveled widely in the United States and is in much demand as a speaker.

and have a scientific bend," he answered.

Then he reminisced, "When I was at USC, I went to school between 8 a.m. and 12, coming in on the 6 a.m. car. Then I would take a 5-cent jitney to the college, have breakfast that cost 15 cents. I worked for the dean the rest of the day. While I was there I audited food analysis and became the city chemist of Sierra Madre."

Don Grossman, vice-president of operations of Superior Drug Co., said, "As of Feb. 1, we will move from Sierra Madre Blvd. to Baldwin Ave., but until that day we will be in business through Jan. 31 at 6 p.m. We will not be closed for business at any time. For a week or so there might be a bit of disruption, but after that we believe the move will go smoothly. Grossman, who grew up in Arcadia, said he expected the same personnel to move up to Baldwin.

Hal Evans, pharmacist, has been with Best Buy for 22 years and has been in the Sierra Madre store for more than half of that time, Grossman said.

"I am excited about the changeover. We feel it's a good store and we hope to continue to serve the whole foothill area. The Hartman name has been in the community for many years, and Dave Kirkpatrick is a very respected person in the community," Grossman told The News.

Dr. David Kirkpatrick has been with Hartman Pharmacy for 29 years and said he was not sure of his future plans at this point.

Best Buy has six other stores, one in Pasadena, two in Hacienda Heights, one each in Santa Ana, El Monte and Bell Gardens.

Best Buy has also served for a year as the pharmacy representative for Sierra Madre Community Health Care Center.

Catimon goes to Texas base

Marine Lance Cpl. David A. Catimon, son of Shirley Lindblom of Sierra Madre, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with 3rd Marine Aircraft Wing, Marine Corps Helicopter Air Station, Tustin, CA.

A 1981 graduate of Pasadena High School, Pasadena, he joined the Marine Corps in February, 1984.

Mike and Dorothy McCauley

Sierra Madre newcomers enjoy town, work here

Two young people new to the town have just taken on new jobs in Sierra Madre. Mike McCauley has opened a service and sales business for washers and dryers and Dorothy McCauley has joined Roess Market as a checker.

Both McCauleys are native Californians and grew up in Alhambra. They had always "dreamed of living here, since it is just a pace slower than the rest of the world," McCauley explained when asked why they had moved to Sierra Madre. They came to this foothill town in December, 1983.

He recently sold the sales and service washer and dryer business he started in 1978. Before that, he had worked for others who were in the same business.

McCauley explains that he hopes to spend more time with his family as he and his wife share the work and family responsibilities. They have two children, Stephanie, 5 and Sean, 3.

The McCauleys attend Sierra Madre Congregational Church and are members of the choir. "I'd like to spend part of my day working at SMCC," McCauley says.

Welcome them to Sierra Madre. His advertisement appears in the Bulletin Board section of the Sierra Madre News.

PALM TREES LOST THEIR 'SKIRTS' — Many palm trees around Sierra Madre lost many fronds that blew into drifts in corners. Trees all shapes and sizes were uprooted and many broke in two from the blasts of wind.

MIRACLE FABRIC: SILK

By Joe Delgatto

Nearly 5000 years ago, the wife of a Chinese Emperor sponsored the first recorded culture of silk. This harvesting of domesticated silk soon became so important that within a generation it was necessary to cultivate the mulberry tree specifically as food for the silkworm.

For two thousand years the Chinese successfully guarded the secrets of silk culture. As with all secrets, however, this one too was eventually revealed. Legend has it that two enterprising Greek monks hid silk cocoons in their walking staffs and took them back to Greece.

By 700 AD silk was a well developed industry in Southern Europe.

And its importance was so great that even in our own colonial days one of the stipulations made by the English King for the settling of Georgia was that settlers plant 100 mulberry trees on every 10 acres — to insure adequate food supply for silkworms.

But the high cost of labor, and the advent of other fibers gradually reduced the importance of silk. In fact, in the last 100 years, the production of silk has been completely dwarfed by the volume of other fibers produced.

In spite of all that, silk continues to be one of the world's most desired fibers. Its very name has become synonymous for luxury and quality.

Why? The answer to that in another article. Meanwhile, for the superior kind of cleaning which knowledgeable people want —

Winners of soccer tourney

Arcadia/Sierra Madre Region 2 AYSO wrapped up their eleventh annual indoor soccer tournament Sunday at the Arcadia High School gym. The 10-day tournament featured 125 local AYSO teams playing 175 games to determine champions in all boys and girls divisions from 5-yr. olds to 18-yr. olds. Over 4000 spectators watched the fast-action play during the tournament. Indoor soccer is played with sideboards and small goals similar to hockey.

New to the tournament this were seedings for first round play and a modified double elimination tournament format which provided each team with at least two games. The semi-finals Saturday and the finals Sunday featured many close games decided in overtime play with cheering spectators shouting encouragement to the players.

Champions included Silver Bullets, Blue Thunder, Mighty He Men, Lazers, Thunder, Watchamacallits 'A,' Strikers, Speedsters, C lash 'A,' Foxy Footers, Invaders 'B,' Arcadia Grand Prix and Celtics.

Sports

From Behind the Wire

by Ed Colucci

This Sunday is Super Bowl Sunday. I still don't know if I want to go or not. I have my shots from this last football season, so I should be immune from most anything I can catch up in Palo Alto.

I have some money that the Old Sports Wife doesn't know about and a free airline ticket that my son gave me. I really don't need a place to sleep because I can sleep in the back of a truck and I still have some freeze dried food left over from the time we climbed up Mt. Wilson Trail.

So now I'm ready. All I need now is a ticket. Let's see, a regular ticket sells for around 50 folks in the N.F.L. office which they use. Somehow we poor football grunts never seem to bucks, so all I need now is around another $500 more.

Why is it you can't get one for the face price anymore and you have to watch out for the counterfeit ones along the way? All the ticket brokers won't even talk to you for less than $3000.

Where do they get them all? Well, this is the way it works. Each team to play split 40% of the tickets and each club in the N.F.L. gets to split the rest to their season ticket holders. But there is always a few left over that go to the get them. So I've decided I'm not going after all. I'm going to stay home and watch it on TV.

It will cost the advertisers a staggering $1 million for one minute of air time for the commercials this year, and at about 40 spots for the game and all the pre-game and post game stuff the N.F.L. and the players are going to do real well. The winners will get $64,000 and the losers will get around $37,000. What a way to work an hour on Sunday afternoon.

Now this is where I strike back. First, I'll buy a sixer for around three bucks. I'll get the leftover turkey from Thanksgiving day out of the freezer and a box of crackers. I may invite my brother and brother-in-law over and maybe the nephews. I'll set up my VCR machine to record the game so I don't miss anything, and now here we go.

When the commercials come on, we can talk about the last good play or go the convenience and not look at the screen. When the game starts again, we all shut up until the next spot comes on and then yell what a jerk the coach was for that last play they should not have run. And so forth and so forth.

The game should run about three hours and should keep us off the streets which will make it safe for all the lost dogs. So there you go — a nice cheap day and I don't have to worry about getting out of Palo Alto and I won't have to turn out the lights when I leave the village.

See you on the street.

— BIG ED

Shorty:

If anyone has some free tickets to the game, I'm available.
